With the rise of technology, how can we protect ourselves from being fooled by fake news?

Creating Audio Deepfake and Voice Cloning

Creating an audio deepfake involves three steps: data collection, training, and generation. Firstly, the system needs a large volume of audio samples of the targeted voice. The more data the system has, the better the results. Secondly, the audio samples are used to train a deep learning model. Lastly, the model generates new audio that resembles the targeted voice. Open-source platforms on Github provide various resources for these operations.
