

Mark Crilley Tiger, Koi, Preying Mantis, and Monkey drawings - Rubric

1 pt.	3 pts.	5 pts.
The drawing is missing a lot of details suggested in the video.	The student followed some of the instructions from each video. There are subtle details that are missing or were not used from the video.	The drawing has evidence that the student followed the instructions from each video. The subtle details from the instruction are present in the drawing.
The drawing has no texture. The marks/lines have a disorganized purpose.	The artist quickly added value, line quality. The length of their lines, and the directions of their lines is too simple or inaccurate.  The texture needs improvement.	The artist was able to control value, line quality, the length of their lines, the directions of their lines.  The lines and marks create the illusion of texture.
The drawing is way out of proportion and the scale is wrong.	The scale and proportion of their drawing are a bit off.  Some part of the drawing is not harmonious.	The artist was able to control the scale and proportion of their drawing by using a template or guide lines where suggested.  All the parts of the drawing are harmonious.
There is evidence that the artist worked below, their level of ability.  There are a lot of elements that could be improved.	There is evidence that the artist applied Some effort to create a drawing. More attention to details could be applied.	There is evidence that the artist applied A LOT of effort to create the best drawing that they could.

Each drawing is worth 20 pts.